

José Manuel Álvarez Martínez

Postdoc researcher of the Continental Ecosystem group at the Environmental Hydraulics Institute of the University of Cantabria. His main research topic relates to the effect of land use and cover change on vegetation dynamics and ecosystem functioning, within particular interest on large-scale species/community distribution modeling at various spatiotemporal scales using remote sensing.

Link: <https://ihcantabria.com/en/directorio-personal/investigador/jose-manuel-alvarez-martinez/>